OLD COLONY LODGE.

Old Colony Lodge held the 99th anniversary of the founding of Odd Fellowship on Friday evening of last week in a very pleasant and appropriate manner, to the delight of a large audience composed of members and friends. It has been said by all that it was the most excellent entertainment ever given by the lodge and that is high praise for Old Colony Lodge is noted for its talent. Owing to the fact that Noble Grand John J. Waterhouse was to take part in the program, Past Noble Grand Geo. Downing, chairman of the entertainment committee, presided and introduced in his inimitable manner those who took part. It is said that George did not know until the last minute that he was to preside, so his flights of what "Jim" Kimball would call oratorical pyrotechnics were wholly spontaneous.

"It is an ill wind that blows nobody good," and the fact that war conditions make Hoovering imperative caused the committee in charge of the entertainment to look for home talent, and in consequence a program that has never been excelled was presented, with all home talent.

Mr. Kimball was at his best. James is not a jester; he is eloquent and witty and there is a deep strain of philosophy underlying all his fun; he has a wonderful vocabulary. We call attention to what is lost sight of by many, and that is the wonderful eloquence of his serious effort. His monologue on "Women" is a literary production. His wit shows up by contrast the eternal verities and drives home the lessons of life by its very antithesis. One recovers only partially from laughter and speculation as to the underlying meaning of one of his jokes when he has another psychological joke before the house. One's mind must travel swiftly to follow "Jim" in his advance on the truth which is stranger than fiction. His extended vocabulary is due to the multiplicity of his ideas. One would think when one stops to analyze his talks, that he works his think-tank overtime, but such is not the case; to think comes natural and easy to "Jim." His wit just flows and is like Mark Twain's.

The service flag, dedicated with an eloquent address by Rev. Frank Kingdon, was something which touched all hearts and Rev. Kingdon's words of feeling and eloquence made each one see more clearly the meaning of the flag and the sacrifice that is being made by our boys. The writer does not feel equal to the task of describing the splendid eloquence of this address, or to in any way do justice to the theme. The music by the Dorothy Bradford Quartette was appropriate and pleasing and roundly applauded. Mr. Godfrey, Dr. Underwood and the Misses Thomas and Sprague, are a splendid quartette whose voices blend most harmoniously. Miss Wilder, accompanist, adds much to the effect. Noble Grand John, G. Waterhouse and Mr. Jerome Douglass furnished instrumental music of a high order. Everybody had a good time. After the entertainment ice cream and cake was served in the banquet hall and a social time enjoyed. It was a memorable event all round.

ANNUAL CONCERT POPE MEMORIAL CHURCH.

The annual concert at the Pope Memorial Church will be given Thursday evening, May 7, at 8 o'clock. Mr. Geo. Goulding, of Providence, was organist and accompanist; Miss Hazel Clark, of North Weymouth, violinist; Mr. Edward Mc. Morrow, of Rockland, soloist; Miss May Delaney, of Cambridge, reader, will take part. Tickets, 25 cents. The Society desires and always designs to give a good concert for a most reasonable price, the object being to present a good entertainment rather than to make money.

Louis Halliwell, who was clerk at Fuller & Gilman's store, is now with the gallant 101st at the front.

Catch Fish in Their Hands.
Fishing in Sarnian seas is often done by the women, and without nets, boats, or hooks. They simply wade into the water and form themselves into a ring. The fishes being so plentiful, they are almost sure to imprison some in the net and active, and every time they catch a fish with their hands they simply throw it, alive, into the basket on their back.

Inside Flower Box.
So many people fail to recognize the decorative qualities to be found in the use of the all-year-round flower boxes. And there is no doubt at all that flower boxes make a room look more cozy and homelike. Consult a florist regarding the sort of flowers which will grow well in your window, and consult a carpenter about making the necessary window box. Your room will be a more beautiful and lovable place.

Wonderfully Acute Faculties.
The keenest hearing is that of the vaudeville artist, who frequently answers the encore before it starts—Kansas City Star.

Cabbie Had Best of It.
At a busy crossing in Edinburgh a cabman was stopped by the policeman on duty in order to allow the cross traffic to proceed.
The man in blue, evidently proud of his authority, kept the cabbie waiting longer than was necessary.
The cabman began to proceed, although the hand of the policeman was against him.
"Did ye no see me haudin' up my hand?" roared the angry policeman.
"Well, I did notice that it began to get dark suddenly," said the cabbie; "but I didn't know it was your hand."
"Ye see, it's taken me all my time to keep my horse frae shynin' at yer feet!"

PROVEN SWAMP-ROOT AIDS WEAK KIDNEYS

The symptoms of kidney and bladder troubles are often very distressing and leave the system in a run-down condition. The kidneys seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more dangerous kidney troubles.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which, so many people say, soon heals and strengthens the kidneys, is a splendid kidney, liver and bladder medicine, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who use it.

A total will convince anyone who may be in need of it. Better get a bottle from your nearest drug store, and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

No Use for Horseradish.
A raw servant girl was told to order the family vegetables at the grocer's. After booking what was asked for, the tradesman queried:
"Will your mistress want any horseradish today? Some just in, nice and fresh."

Toosing her head, Mary Jane said:
"No, indeed; we want no such thing, I know. My master keeps a motorcar."

We Do Not Know What War Means

lists are watched with anxious eyes. Tears and anguish and heartbreaks at the price we must pay to write a head line of Victory," declared Oswald F. Schutte, for three years war correspondent of the Chicago News with the armies of the Central powers, in an address before the Press club of Chicago.

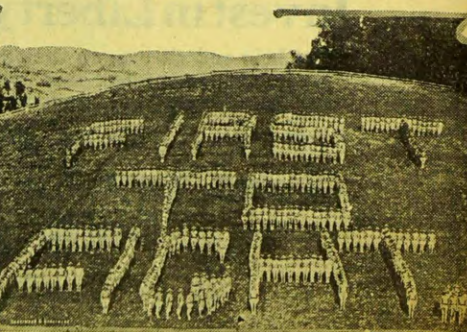

"A year ago we unfurled the battle flags of the republic. We pledged our selves to the greatest sacrifice the greatest of world wars might demand. The American people are ready to make that sacrifice. But so far we do not know over here what war really is. I have come out of three years in that inferno. All Europe is aflame. It knows it is in the war. Even neutral countries such as Switzerland feel it a hundredfold more than we. Their economy and conservation is no longer a matter of prudence, of voluntary sacrifice. It is a matter of enforced necessity, of grim compulsion. They are not saving food to feed someone else. They are saving because they have too little themselves. And in the warring countries, there is war in every breath. War is a tragic reality for them. They do not need flags in the streets to remind them of the war—and you see few flags over there. War rations out their meager rations. War is their cook. War allots the comfort of their daily life, and the proportion are small. Luxuries are gone. War stalks through their streets with the soldiers in uniform. War's shadow is behind the mothers who pray in the churches that their boys may be saved. We hardly know these things. We

One Egg in Three Weeks.

"Shortly after the break of diplomatic relations a year ago, when I was still in Berlin for the Daily News, an American colleague, the Berlin representative of the Associated Press, contracted pneumonia. It was a critical case. The physicians said they could cure the pneumonia. But they said the patient would never recover. The Berlin food rations, they said, would not permit that. Patients such as he, they say, invariably died. That was the penalty of war. For it takes eggs and butter and milk and other unknown luxuries to bring a man back from the grave. At that time, the Berlin egg ration was about one every three weeks. Every three weeks, by the calendar, a coupon on the egg card would be validated to entitle the holder to purchase one egg from the grocer with whom his name had been registered. But we went out on an appeal to every available American to help. We mobilized every egg in the American colony in Berlin. We gathered all the butter we could find. We asked no questions when there seemed some doubt as to the strictness with which the "one egg every three weeks" regulation had been obeyed. But this patient had three delicious omelettes a day for three weeks. No one else in all the Central powers, not the kaiser nor Hindenburg, had received in any such luxury of eggs in three years of war. But it saved his life. It was the mobilization of the eggs, not the physicians, that did it."

Wife of Chief Yoeman

WIFE IS TEMPORARY RECEIVER

Might Not Be Bad Idea for Many Men to Adopt Plan Recommended by Tudd.

There is a story in the American Magazine in which a man who hasn't been able to get along on his salary installed his wife as temporary receiver. It worked wonders with him. Here is part of the story:

"What you want," said Tudd, smiling, "is to go into the hands of a receiver—a temporary receiver—like your firm did. You said they did, didn't you? How are they coming out?"

"Fine," said Brett.
"That's good. And that's what you need—to go into the hands of a temporary receiver. You ain't a bad business man, but you've got yourself all balled up. You ought to go to somebody and say: 'Here! I've got my affairs all balled up, and I can't seem to pull out and get my debts paid and everything cleaned up, and it is worrying me to death, and if somebody don't do something I'm going to have a nerve smash and go plumb bankrupt! Here, you take me over and see what you can do.'"

"Brett drew a deep breath and looked at Tudd questionably. Tudd was a success and a kindly man. If Tudd would—
"And the person to be your temporary receiver," said Tudd, "is your wife, of course."

Perhaps Well He Hadn't Known.

An Irish cab driver, grumbling at the shilling gratuity at his journey's end, said in a sly undertone:
"Faith, it's not putting me off with this you'd be if you knew all."

The traveler's curiosity was excited.

"What do you mean?"

Another shilling was tendered.

"And now," said the gentleman, "what do you mean by saying 'if you knew all'?"

"That I drove your honor the last three miles without a linchpin!"

TEN SUBMARINES SUNK BY AVIATORS

British Admiralty Gives Out Details of Achievements of Seaplanes.

BOMBS DO GOOD WORK

Undersea Craft Unable to Dive Before Missiles Are Dropped—One Destroyed in Act of Attack on Merchantman.

London.—Details concerning the destruction recently of ten German submarines by naval aircraft, eight by seaplanes and the others by dirigibles, have been obtained by the Associated Press from admiralty reports. The first case is described as follows:

"While on patrol in the English channel a seaplane sighted a submarine eight miles away, directly in the path of an oncoming convoy of merchant ships. The seaplane dived at 90 miles an hour. The submarine attempted to escape by submerging, but was just awash as the seaplane reached a homing position and released two bombs, one of which exploded on the conning tower. The seaplane dropped two more bombs into the midst of the bubbles from the collapsed submarine, which was of the largest type, carrying two guns."

The second case: "At dawn a seaplane sighted a large submarine on the surface, with a member of the crew standing by the gun. The seaplane dropped a bomb on the tail of the U-boat and afterward photographed the sinking submarine, with a big hole in its deck. A second bomb was dropped close to the submarine's bow, and the U-boat collapsed."

Catches U-Boat on Surface.
The third case: "Two seaplanes attacked a large submarine travelling on the surface at 14 knots, with two men in the conning tower. A bomb was exploded close to the conning tower, and the submarine began to sink stern first. A bomb from a second seaplane completed the work."

The fourth case: "Three patrol planes sighted a large submarine as it was submerging, and dropped two bombs close to the conning tower, causing the submarine to turn turtle and disappear in a mass of oil and wreckage."

The fifth case: "A seaplane sighted two submarines close to the surface and dropped two bombs. One bomb was ineffective, but the other hit the deck fairly amidships. The submarine was hidden by the smoke of the explosion, and when the smoke cleared the U-boat was sinking, with both ends in the air."

The sixth case: "A seaplane saw the track of a torpedo fired at a merchantman. It dived toward the surface and sighted the black shade of the submarine well below the surface. It dropped two bombs, which both exploded close to the submarine, resulting in a large quantity of oil, bubbles and wreckage."

The seventh case: "Two seaplanes sighted a U-boat on the surface and dropped a heavy list to port. The pilot dropped a second bomb into the swirl and a few minutes later a patch of oil 150 feet long and 12 feet wide appeared on the surface."

The eighth case: "A naval airship at midday sighted a suspicious patch of oil and circled it in an effort to ascertain the cause. Suddenly a periscope broke the surface in the midst of the oil. The airship dropped a bomb close to the periscope and a series of bubbles began appearing, indicating that the damaged submarine was moving slowly away under the water. Several more bombs were dropped in the path indicated until satisfactory evidence was obtained of the enemy's destruction."

The ninth case: "A naval airship dropped two bombs over a submarine which was engaged in attacking merchantmen. Great patches of oil and bubbles indicated severe damage and travelers made this complete by depth charges."

The tenth case: "An airship dropped two bombs over a submarine which was engaged in attacking merchantmen. Great patches of oil and bubbles indicated severe damage and travelers made this complete by depth charges."

The eleventh case: "An airship dropped two bombs over a submarine which was engaged in attacking merchantmen. Great patches of oil and bubbles indicated severe damage and travelers made this complete by depth charges."

Waterproof pockets with water-tight fastenings for bathing attire have been invented by two New York men.

A woman can win better than a man; the maintenance of public decorum among girls, supervision over female servants' registries, duties under the shop hours acts, food control orders and the like, and supervision over places of amusement catering for children.

It is not, Sir Leonard hopes, suggested that women should be employed in the suppression of public order and the arrest of dangerous or violent criminals.

With regard to the desirability of instructing them that part of the investigation of sexual crime which involves intimate conversation with the victim, the Inspector declares that the police themselves were the first to recognize this, but until some years ago failed to find a woman of education who recognized this as a woman's work.

Sir Leonard pays tribute to the fine work being done by the women police employed by the ministry of munitions, and refers also to the success of the efforts of the women patriots. He denies that the increase of offenses by juveniles and the decrease of personal chastity of girls are the

AID FROM RED CROSS

American Prisoners in Germany Being Cared For.

Food Sent Regularly Through International Red Cross in Switzerland.

Washington.—Food is now being sent regularly to American prisoners in Germany by the American Red Cross through an arrangement with the International Red Cross in Switzerland.

The American Red Cross office at Paris recently received a complete list of the 159 Americans then prisoners in Germany. The German government permits the Red Cross to send each man 20 pounds of food a week, in two packages of ten pounds each.

This Red Cross service is being enlarged and a warehouse to hold food enough for 10,000 American prisoners already is under construction near Berne, Switzerland. It is estimated that at least 90 per cent of the food packages reach the men.

Parents, wives and relatives of our soldiers and sailors will find in this particular Red Cross service the greatest satisfaction because they have dreaded German prison life for their loved ones perhaps more than death itself.

The American prisoners will be permitted to write two letters and four post cards each month, and also to acknowledge the receipt of food packages. The Red Cross food package follows the army ration pretty closely, and frequently fresh white bread is included from the Red Cross bakery in Berne.

This service is one more reason why the American people will respond generously to the next Red Cross war fund campaign, May 20-27, when another $100,000,000 to "enjoy on" will be asked.

JAILED BECAUSE OF LOOKS

Youth Who Looks Older Than He Is Spends 202 Days Behind Bars.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Just because he looks to be twenty-five, but in fact is only twenty years old, Murphy Cutler of Shroveton, La., has spent 202 days since June 5 last in jails on charges of being a draft slacker. Cutler has just been released from his latest trouble after having been in the Marion county jail 20 days. He was first arrested in Fredonia, Kan., and held for 120 days, then he spent 56 days in another jail on similar charges. In each case he was able to prove he lacked one day of being twenty-one on registration day.

consequence of the war or that they have been aggravated by the war.

For years past police reports have laid stress on the decency of parental control, and the influence of parents with a true sense of their responsibilities does not seem likely to revive. Crime is showing an upward tendency—reduced street lighting, bigamy, concealment of birth and infanticide, the latter directly due to circumstances of the war contributing.

"TWO BITS A DAY—THE PATRIOT'S WAY," WINNER

Los Angeles, Cal.—"Two bits a day—the patriot's way" was the prize winning slogan in a contest conducted by a local bank. Five thousand patriots participated in the contest. "Win the war, bit by bit" won the second prize, and "Every miser helps the Kaiser" won the third prize.

High Cattle Prices Accompany High Beef Prices

If consumers are to pay less for beef, live-stock raisers naturally will receive less for cattle.

If farmers are paid more for live stock, consumers will necessarily pay more for meat.

Swift & Company pays for cattle approximately 90 per cent of the price received for beef and by-products. The remaining 10 per cent pays for dressing, freight to market, operation of distributing houses, and in most cases, delivery to the retailer. Net profits also have to come out of this 10 per cent.

This margin cannot be squeezed arbitrarily without danger of crippling the only effective means of performing the complex service of converting cattle into meat and distributing this meat to the fighting forces and to consumers.

Swift & Company's net profit on beef during 1917 was only 1/4 of a cent per pound. On all products, it was a little less than four cents on each dollar of sales. Complete elimination of these profits would not affect appreciably retail prices of meat, or farm prices of live stock.

Swift & Company will be glad to co-operate in devising methods that will improve conditions in the meat and live stock industry.

Mrs. Croker of East Weymouth will be in Cohasset at Miss Miriam's store every Tuesday and Thursday of each week to sell hats and take orders, assisted by Miss Ruth Keene.

The Benevolent Union meets on Thursday with Mrs. Stephen Nichols.
Cohasset went "over the top" on the Third Liberty Loan, the sale of Liberty bonds on Tuesday of this week amounting to something over $154,000, which is $40,000 over the quota asked, which is $114,000. The honor flag which is presented to towns and cities going "over the top" on the loan adorns the building occupied by Browne's drug store.

The Parent Teacher Association will meet at North Cohasset next Monday, May 6. It is expected Mrs. William Brown will be the speaker.

An especially sad event was the passing away last Saturday morning, at 4 o'clock, of Mrs. Emma Gibson, wife of Mr. Cyrus H. Bates, at her home on "The Bridges," Jerusalem road, after an illness of a week or ten days with pneumonia. This day had been set for the wedding day of her younger daughter, Miss Julia Weston, who was to have been united in marriage to Mr. Wm.
Melcher of Hingham at 4:30 p. m. in St. Stephen's Church. Instead, the day of bridal festivity was turned to one of mourning and the wedding and reception were cancelled. Miss Bates and Mr. Melcher being united in marriage very quietly, in the presence of the immediate family, at half past four on Saturday, at her home, instead of at the church, as previously planned, by Rev. Cyrus Lyman Eustis. Mrs. Bates was born in Cohasset, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Melcher.
She is survived by a husband and two daughters, Miss Alma Bates and Mrs.
Wm. Melcher.

and twin sons, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Scudder of Boston and Concord, will occupy the residence of the Misses Arthur, "Oak Lodge," at Sandy Cove, this season.

Mrs. George Ide and daughter, Miss Ethel Ide, of Hyde Park, were guests of Mrs. John Moore recently.

workmen, the two houses occupied by employees of Mr. Crossett at his estate on Hominy Point.

ily have returned to their home after spending the winter in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Silvia, Mr. Joseph Hutchinson and Mr. Henry Brennock went by auto to Scituate Beach last Friday, to the place near the old quarry on the road which leads toward the Glades Gate, to observe the making of moving picture reels by movie actors and actresses who came from New York to act for the moving pictures. Because of the smoothness of the ocean the party were not there on Sunday. It was said they would come back when old Neptune was in wrathful mood.

A splendid exhibition of Boy Scout efficiency was given by the Boy Scouts of Cohasset, Troop 1, Fred Stanley, scoutmaster, and 20 boys from Troop 1 of Hingham, Rev. Lawrence Perry, scoutmaster, last Friday evening, April 26, in the Town Hall. The programme was as follows:

Cohasset won.

Eleven boys of Cohasset Troop went through a drill of the Morse code, four gave the messages and received them and four Hingham scouts gave and received a message by semaphore code (two flags). Under the leadership of Rev. Fred Stanley, the Cohasset boys have attained a very high degree of proficiency and skill, for they have in him a most earnest and faithful teacher, who takes the utmost interest in them, and the boys in consequence are continually renewing their enthusiasm for the work. Mr. George Collier, chairman of the court of honor for Old Colony Council, presented merit badges to three Boy Scouts from Hingham. These merit badges may be worked for and earned after a boy becomes a first class scout.

Hingham, has been tendered a call to the ing selling Liberty bonds this week for cupy one of Mr. Snow's houses at Lin-

Day, and will be observed as such at the

with stomach trouble.

Messrs. George and Boscoe Bowser have left town, George on the 10th of in New Jersey and learned the automobile business in which he expected to engage with Mr. Ruter. Roscoe was drafted and went to Camp Devens last Friday. He had just entered his application for the navy when drafted into service. He is a graduate of Tuskegee College Alabama and assisted his father in the florist business they have maintained at their home on North Main street. May all good luck attend these young men who are fine specimens in civil life as they will be as soldiers of the educated intelligent colored citizens who never fail our country when she needs them.

Mr. Clarence Sylvester who is employed by the Boston branch of the White Motor Company, sold a fire truck to the committee at Marshfield appointed to negotiate the transaction, and Mrs.
Sylvester accompanied him to Marsh-to Dr. Bartlett and Mr. Silas Wright, members of the committee, who received it.

Mr. Hector E. Lynch, of Hotel Carlton, to his home on the water front at Allerton.

Louise Allen has been confined to the house for a few days by measles.
Mr. Percy Penfold was awarded the contract to collect and dispose of the garbage at Nantasket and Hull.

On Wednesday evening there was a dance in the Town Hall.
Mr. Harold West will open his Allerton store about May 11.

The streets and sidewalks are all being put in repair. Highland avenue has been done and Mrs. Sirovich, who owns property on this hill, is very much pleased with the excellent manner in which it has been done.

About 11:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening the Waveland and Nantasket engines went through the town toward Hull.

A few small fires have occurred recently. A small building belonging to Mr. Thomas Glasgow was destroyed.
Mr. Walter Whitten has been at Allerton recently. He has had some coal put into the Sylvester house and will "open" soon for business.

Mrs. Carol Cleverly is noted for her hospitality. One evening recently she gave the writer such a beautiful supper that she has not been hungry since.
Mr. and Mrs. John Knowles are the happy possessors of many souvenirs from their son Jack in France. The Hull correspondent was hospitably entertained recently by Mrs. Knowles, and also Miss Jennie Hill was a guest.

Miss Alice Count of Dorchester and Hingham, has been the guest of her niece, Mrs. Andrew Pope.

Some Things Concerning Stripes.

Striped satins and taffetas, combined with plain georgette crepe, for afternoon gowns, are proving themselves an unfailing source of inspiration to the designers. Just the many variations that can be made in the arrangement of stripes gives much room for the play of fancy and for good management of lines. Speaking of stripes, stout women ought to take note that they are to be considered a special dispensation of Providence for their benefit. The modiste who knows how to manage them can do wonders for her stout patrons.

The pretty afternoon frock shown in the picture is just one more of the happy combinations of striped taffeta and plain georgette that is different from any of the others. The dress is mostly of the striped satin and always the stripes run in a diagonal. The skirt is disposed of by making it plain with stripes running downward from left to right. It has a three-inch hem, is not quite ankle length, and for an older woman should be a little longer.

The tunic is of accordeon plaited georgette, with a wide blue border of the satin. It is uneven in length all round. The bodice is very cleverly managed with the left side cut so that it is extended into a pleat of the satin that is brought around the waist and fastens under the arm at the left. The sleeves are made of georgette crepe, with deep cuffs of satin, and there is a small shawl collar of the crepe. A lace collar partly overlays it, to provide a bit of white next the face.

This pretty frock is made with very little material; stripes make other decorations, like plaits and tucks, unnecessary. It takes much cleverness to manage them just right, but the play is worth the candle, for they make very graceful gowns. They are all particularly useful for remodeling gowns, because they change the appearance of an old dress completely.

Use of Japanese Crepe.

A wonderfully pretty negligee may be fashioned from the new Japanese crepe which is inexpensive as well as beautiful. Six yards of bordered crepe are required to reproduce the negligee.
It has perfectly straight lines and the cuffs and collar correspond with the border at the lower edge. Not to overdo the decorative scheme, the pockets are left plain.

Some Unusual Ideas in Hats.

"Safe and sane" is descriptive of the shapes of hats and the management of their trimmings this season. Those who buy them in quantities and where styles are originated, tell us that there were never fewer bizarre or extravagant ideas in millinery than at present. The task of the designer is made more difficult by this state of things.
She must contrive little unusual and unexpected touches on these matter-of-fact shapes, in order to answer the demand for distinctive and original ideas, which women clamor for in their millinery.

In the three hats shown in the group above, the designers have met and overcome their difficulties. At the top there is a shape of black lisse braid in the crown and a braid of black mulinex that suggests a poke bonnet with its lifted point at the middle of the front. We might look for quaint flower trimming and ribbon streamers on this shape, but we find the unexpected in two fans of Japanese algrette and six braid buttons and simulated buttonholes of braid across the front.
This combination of picturesque shape and tailored finish will please the woman who is looking for a hat that can be worn almost anywhere.

At the left of the picture there is a Milan shape with drooping brim faced with crepe georgette. It has an unlooked-for split in the brim at the left side, that is odd and pretty. There is a band of blue crepe like the facing about the crown and above this a collar of narrow moire ribbon tied with a bow at the front. Four jet ornaments on the side crown proclaim the return of jet in millinery.

At the right there is a small shepherdess shape, with a sash in black on a black hat faced with rose. The sash wanders over the back brim and is fastened under it in a bow set against a bandeau. The quills are the odd feature in this hat. They are shaded in rose-color and black and curve over the crown and about the right brim, following the lines of the shape as closely as possible. They are feathers, of course, but so highly enameled that they look as if they might be made of porcelain.

The Danger
Zone

By Florence Lillian Henderson

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

"You can't see it my way, Nance?"
"I am sorry to say I can't, Levi. I fear I never will."

"Fear! sorry!" scorned Levi Blair, with a dark scowl. "It's well enough to be polite, but I'd speak the truth if I were you. There's someone else, that's what's the trouble, and I'd like to run across him. And I have a dim idea who it is. He's keeping close, and he'd better, for he's wanted, and if he's caught the crowd will surely settle him."

"You have said quite enough," spoke Nance Duryea with flashing eyes.
"Don't you dare to come here any more." Slam! And Levi Blair found the closed door between himself and the object of his love. He shook his fist at an imaginary rival and went his way.

The Duryea house was connected by a covered passageway with the little one-story and left workshop where John Duryea made boxes. He had originally been a cooper, but there was no demand for barrels or kegs in the district since the moonshiners had been driven into exile. At Mayville, twenty miles away, however, a small shoe factory had been started. Labor was cheap and there was a local tannery, and the shoe people had given Duryea a permanent and quite profitable contract to supply them with shipping cases.

The value of the contract and the necessity of business expansion had about influenced Mr. Duryea to remove to Mayville, and Nance hailed the prospect with delight. There was nothing at Crofton to attract a young girl. The men were rough and uncouth, the women led a humdrum, slavish life and the town and the district was dominated by a fierce, law-defying group, familiarly known as "The Hillers."

They were called that because at the appearance of anyone in collision with the law the moonshiner up among the mountain ranges welcomed the refuge to shelter and protection. The two elements were in friendly communication and stood by each other in a signal way when occasion required.

The advent of a stranger was always hailed with suspicion. The rough element looked for an excise officer or a government spy invading their territory in every newcomer, and when Bert Knowlton, a young lawyer from a distant city appeared in the interest of a client relating to a large tract of coal land, he was advised by the local head of justice as follows:

"Get through your job quick as you can and stay in nights."

"Why? What's the particular danger?" inquired the self-possessed young man rather coolly.

"You're hitting the gang, that's the particular danger," responded the tavern keeper. "As you know, the squatter rights of the tract in litigation rest with the Widener family and they're strong and powerful with the folks hereabouts. They'll block you, I warn you, and if you stick too close and too long, it will be a load of buckshot some dark night."

"I shall try to take care of myself," said Knowlton with his habitual composure, and went on his way, unde-rterred and unafraid.

By the merest chance once or twice he had met Nance Duryea. The first time was when he overtook her in a sudden rainstorm, and his umbrella, as he escorted her home, afforded her timely shelter. She was duly impres-sioned with this neatly groomed, clear-eyed young man, whose courtesy and attentions made her remember him. There had been a half understanding between them that he was to call upon her the evening when Levi Blair made his plea and threat, but Knowlton did not come, much to the disappointment of Nance.

It was the next afternoon just about dusk when loud voices and a general commotion in front of the house called her to the front door. She was startled to observe her father with set face and wrath-filled eyes confronting half a dozen rough-looking men, one of whom was holding a bloodstained inleash, Levi Blair was the leader.

"Search my house," John Duryea was shouting, and his honest face fairly bristled with indignation and resentment. "Why, I'll wing the first dast-ard who crosses the threshold."

"That's all right, John Duryea," spoke Blair, "but our dog has traced the blood marks in this direction. We are after that spy, Knowlton, and we're going to get him. He wounded two of our men and he escaped, but with a good dose of buckshot in our leg."

"You coward," cried Nance, stepping into plain view. "How dare you insinuate that Mr. Knowlton came here. My father scarcely knows him by sight and I have not seen him for two days.
Double craven you are, to hunt down a stranger who comes here among us on legitimate business."

"You can go your way," spoke Mr.
Duryea. "I have always been neutral in your affairs, attending strictly to my own. I'll tell you this, though: some day you'll go too far and the police down at Mayville will come up here and clean you out, root and branch."

Reluctantly and with vengeful ire Levi Blair led his crowd away. Nance went to her own room. She was agitated and in tears. Analyzing intelligently an emotion of rare interest in the hunted man, she dared not confront her father with her tell-tale face.

Nance did not go to bed at her usual hour. She could not sleep thinking of the handsome, manly young fellow who had fallen under the ban of the Hillers. She had watched her father and his hired man piling the packing cases on the great hayrack truck, a full load for Mayville. Then the hired man went to his home nearer the village to get his supper and have a lunch put up to last him through his long trip.

Suddenly Nance bent her ear and listened. A scraping sound echoed from overhead. She thrilled as it was followed by a distinct groan. Her heart stood in her mouth as she took up a lamp and went up the loft stairs.
A quick suspicion had come into her mind. It was verified as, seated upon the floor, she made out Knowlton.

"Oh, I am so glad," she cried spontaneously, and then flushed with confusion. "I mean, that you have escaped those cruel men."

Knowlton was pale, one limb was bandaged from the knee down, but he smiled with swift appreciation of the kindliness of that gentle nature.

"I was just trying to find something that would do for a crutch," he explained. "I feared I might compromise your father by remaining here, where I stole in early this morning. I must get to Mayville and get some of the buckshot picked out of my limb. My wounds are not serious, but I cannot stand on the foot unsupported."

"Yes, you must get away, and I must help you," spoke his practical little friend, meditatively. "Oh, I have it!"

First to see that the bandages were in place, then food and water, and then, Nance supporting him, he was helped down the back stairs to the truck, the cover of a rear-most box removed, and within he ensconced himself.

"You are an angel of mercy," he said feelingly, as he kissed the fair hand that had succored him. Nance set the cover lightly on the box, securing only two nails.

"Inside of three hours you will be within the safety zone," she spoke. "In eight at Mayville. I am so glad!"

She returned to her room, but only to watch and wait until the hired man returned. In the distance she caught the echo of some rascal crew in the town engaged in drunken frolic, and shuddered. She heard the truck wheels grate over the stony road leading to the river ford. Insensibly she drifted into slumber, her head on the window sill, to start up wildly at hour later as the voice of the hired man came up to her from the yard below.

He had two horses, wagonless, and he was shouting excitedly for her father, who came hurrying out to him.

"What's the trouble? Where's the wagon?" cried Duryea sharply.

"Burned up, boxes, truck and all. I met Blair and his crowd, roaring drunk.
They tipped over the wagon, set the boxes on fire, and are now dancing about the ashes like fiends and boasting that they have taught you a lesson for siding with that stranger, Knowlton, who escaped them."

With a wail of terror unutterable Nance Duryea sank to the floor senseless. She was like some crushed flower, when she came downstairs the next morning. Amid his troubles her father failed to notice the haunting terror in her face. She was too stricken and anguished to tell him of the fate of the man she had befriended.

"You're to get ready to have the hired man take you to Mayville at once," her father told her. "I shall follow. It's getting too hot to hold us down here."

She was like one in a dreadful trance all the way to Mayville. Her aunt noticed the cloud that hung over frame and spirit like a pall. Nance for several days was confined to her room under the care of a physician. She came downstairs weak and attenuated. The horror of that night at home, it seemed, would never leave her.

She was reclining at an open window, in an invalid chair, one day, when a man, aided by a crutch, passed along the street. It was he!

"Oh, it cannot be!" she cried. "Mr.
Knowlton; oh, come into this house."

"Just out of the hospital," Bert Knowlton told Nance, "and bent on going back to Crofton to thank you, if fifty Hillers stood in the way."

"But you were burned up—"

"Quite the reverse. I was nearly drowned," said Knowlton. "The box I was in fell off the load as the wagon crossed the ford. I floated for five miles, managed to get ashore, and—but you have been ill?"

She burst into tears of relief and gladness, and then her story, and then—In the tender eyes of the lonely girl beside him, Bert Knowlton read a token of love that assured him that there was no shadow of another parting.

How Do Men Break Down?

Be assured that there is no chance of your breaking down—although there will be times when you will try to fool yourself with this idea. This thought of breaking down indeed is one of the illusions of mediocrity. It is the excuse which every lazy man presents to himself. It is moral astig-matism. The great fact is that men do not break down from overwork so much as it is commonly supposed. As they go upward in the scale of increased activity, increased responsibility only acts upon them as a natural stimulant and carries them along.
If hard work and worry killed men so easily, most of the successful business men of America would be dead already. No! What kills men is due more to what they take into their stomachs rather than what they take into their minds.—Thomas L. Mason, in Physical Culture.

Show Patriotism by Investing in a Third Liberty Bond
or Two.

SECURITY IS BEST IN WORLD

Don't Wait for Somebody Else to Take Your Share of the Greatest Investment Open to a Patriot.

By IRVIN S. COBB.

Speaking of patriotism and our duty to our country—and those are the things of which most of us are speaking these days—why not buy a Third Liberty bond or two?

If ever a thing was well named the Liberty bond is. It stands for liberty—for liberty not only for our own people but for all the peoples of the world—liberty from despotism, from imperialism, from militarism, and, most of all, liberty from Prussianism, which, summed up, is the other three issues rolled into one.

And, likewise, it is a bond—a bond of faith, a bond of honor, a bond of reliability, a bond of security, backed up by the government of the United States of America, its assets, its government, its credits, its power, and its possessions of whatsoever nature.

Flag is Worth Defending.

This generation is just now engaging upon the tasks of preserving and perpetuating what our forefathers earned for us. If the heritage they handed down to us was worth taking, it is worth keeping; if the flag they fought under is worth living under, it is worth defending; if the government they established is a government that should endure, if its securities are stable and sure, it is our duty to invest in these securities, to prove the value of our own citizenship to ourselves by the confidence and the trust we show in our own institutions. The Liberty bond issue gives us that chance without entailing the slightest risk upon our part.

When we buy Liberty bonds we are helping our country, helping as righteous a cause as ever sent a nation to battle, and at the same time we are safeguarding our savings and earning a decent rate of interest on our money.
We can't lose; we are bound to win.
Tillevs may break in and moths may corrupt, but a Liberty bond is as solid as Plymouth rock and as honest as the Declaration of Independence. If it goes down, our government goes down with it, and then your money wouldn't be yours and good anyway. If you had kept it stored up it would be confiscated by a gentleman in a spiked helmet with spiked mustaches and a spiked way of saying "Verboden" to practically everything you wanted to do.

Backing is the Best.

As long as the Stars and Stripes float the Liberty bond will be aloft too.
The Liberty bond is guaranteed by every inch of our soil, by every shred of our traditions, its promise to pay is predicated on every ship that flies our flag, on every pennyweight of railroad iron in our land, on every peppercorn in our granaries, on every dollar of our circulation, on every rod of navigable river, on every furlong of highway, on every gill of water in every American harbor, on every pebble in the rocky mountains, on every blade of growing grain, on everything that we, as a people, own and ever have owned and ever shall own. And, while we are on the subject, I might add that it is predicated on something more besides. It is predicated on Bunker Hill; on Independence Hall; on the little apple tree at Appomattox; on the cornerstone of a building at Washington, D. C., called the national capitol. A man who wouldn't be satisfied with that collateral wouldn't risk a pewter dime for the hope of eternal salvation.

Don't wait for somebody else to take your share of the best investment that is open to a patriot. Our great Revolutionary granddaddies weren't that sort. They motto wasn't, "Let George do it." They helped George do it!

Don't sell Uncle Sam short. Don't be a bear on the Old Glory market.
Don't make your own country ashamed of you.

Buy a Liberty bond!

Home Defense League.

"My wife is the limit," grumbled the American businessman, who was dining with a French visitor to this country. "Since the war began it's just one meeting after another—night and day. Tell me, does your wife go in much for club work?"

"No, ze club-nevalre," replied his guest. "One time—tree time she have slap me and pull ze hair; hut, mon Dieu!—ze club-nevalre."—The Gargoyles.

Powderless Gun Deadly.

An American inventive genius has invented a powderless gun which may revolutionize land attacks. The gun, which might be taken for a large grindstone at a short distance, is revolved at great speed by an electric motor, and is capable of firing hundreds of shots a minute. The bullets are carried in small cups, which hold them until the gun reaches the proper position for their discharge by centrifugal force. The weapon is accurate at live miles, is cheap to operate and is noiseless.

The appointments made in the different offices intown, and the completion of the business up to date will be announced by the office of the Selectmen. No statement can be officially made this week, as no definite appointments have been made and confirmed.

Mr. Frank Reynolds, postmaster here, is at work on plans for a big War Saving Stamp rally at the Apollo Theater in the near future. The management and proprietors are co-operating with Mr. Reynolds, who has been appointed chairman of the town committee. It is reported that Mr. Frank S. Hickey, of Kennerly, president of the Kennerly Improvement Association, and one of the government's "Four Minute Men," will be one of the speakers. It will be remembered that Mr. Hickey, in company with Mr. Charles Flick, has bought Daley & Warner's express and is now a business man of our town; one of us, in fact.

Notice that the Pope Memorial Church will give its annual concert on Tuesday evening, May 7.

Miss Katherine Sweeney is in receipt of a letter from Herbert C. C. in which he told about seeing Mrs. Ralph Place's brother, Mr. Sydney, who was injured.

From the office of K. P. Fallon comes the news that his season is far ahead of last year in the number of rentals up to date.

Mr. Raymond McDonald is putting an addition to the front of his garage. Walsh & Eckard are doing the work. Grand Matron Sister Crafts, of the Order of the Eastern Star, has appointed Mr. E. E. Bickford worthy patron of Dorothy Bradford Chapter, O. E. S., to serve as assistant to the Grand Sentinel at the approaching session of the Grand Chapter. This is an honor that we think he deserves.

The Ocean View cottage on the bluff at Sagamore Hill, facing on Nantasket avenue, is in danger of sliding down into the street. The recent heavy rains have washed away the bank from the cement foundation and this is cracked and tipped. The house is owned by Mrs. Katherine Savage. Its condition was discovered by K. P. Fallon, who notified Mrs. Savage and also the Selectmen. Building Inspector N. B. Warner has notified Mrs. Savage that she must attend to the building at once.

W. O. Souther, real estate agent at Kennerly, reports good business during the past week. He has rented several houses, his record on Sunday being four, to Mr. Jacob Swartz, to Mr. Francis Hewitt, and two of the flats in an apartment house.

The Nantasket Bakery is receiving a coat of white paint.

Chief E. E. Bickford is to take part in matrons' and patrons' night at Sabatia Lodge on Tuesday, May 7.

Mr. K. P. Fallon, wife and son, have returned from Philadelphia, and are residing at their home on Sagamore Hill. Mr. Fallon will be in business here this summer and will return to his position in Philadelphia this winter.

Mr. Frank Hickey has received his appointment from Washington as chairman of the Government Four Minute Men for Hull and the surrounding towns. Mr. Hickey is a convincing speaker. He will appoint his assistants as rapidly as possible, and would be glad if anyone who will serve in this capacity will volunteer.

Mr. K. P. Fallon reports more cottages rented this year at this date than any previous years.

The last in the series of what parties held by the N. B. H. Whist Club was held at the home of Mrs. Rose Flood on Monday evening. It was a package and costume party and was a fitting occasion for a "wind up" of a pleasant winter. A delicious luncheon was served. Each person received a prize and Mrs. Foster Gardner secured the series prize, a cracker jar, for having the highest score for the season.

Messrs. Foster Gardner and George Blaisdell claim that they are better whist players than their wives. They have made 10 sevens, which is going some. They say "it is just like playing alone."

Mrs. Webster Mitchell entertained Aunt Betty at supper on Sunday evening.

Daley & Warner's express moved Mr. L. H. Sullivan from his home in Norwell to his spacious residence on Green Hill on May 1.

Miss Vivian Nelson visited Tilton Seminary, New Hampshire, as guests of Miss Marion Tucker. Vivian traveled down and back alone. She will enter the seminary next fall, taking the private secretary course and music.

Nantasket is waking up and everybody is getting ready for the summer season.

The Guild of St. Elizabeth has adopted Red Cross work and will be a branch of that organization, with the hour of flying the Red Cross flag. No meeting was held on Tuesday evening this week, but Tuesday evening, May 7, there will be a meeting held at Mrs. Mary Marston's on Hillside road, Sagamore Hill, when Red Cross work will be organized. All are invited to come and do this important war work.

Captains Hines and Allen and Lieut. Finch have visited cottages here on Edgewater and Whitehead, through the office of Frank Reynolds Jr., and will occupy them soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Talbot spent several days in Boston the past week. Two homes in Rockland Park have been rented for the season through the office of Frank Reynolds Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Patrick Tison, of the Kennerly House Church Society, which maintains a home for boys, have taken up their residence in Mr. Nazarene Bourque's cottage.

Mr. T. Delagane, of the Boulevard Hotel, will open a restaurant in the Anastas block. He says that "the light green" car will be as famous as the "green car."

The Apollo Theater is presenting pictures every Saturday night. They will have a series of war pictures, like management are now presenting those excellent pictures to please the people, not receiving any great monetary return.

Mr. Harold West has some garden seeds, tomato plants and seed potatoes for sale. Also varnishes, paints and oils at his store at West's Corner. This is the season to paint and plant.

A report of the community meeting will be found in another column.

Mr. Frank Teupleton has rented all his cottages.

Mrs. Hunter will again conduct the Weekly this year, opening about May 15th.

Mrs. Sweeney has been entertaining Miss Helen Winslow, Miss Margaret Daley and Mrs. McCornick, of St. John's, New Brunswick.

Mrs. Paul O. Wade is going to Arizona, where she has large mining interests.

Mrs. James Murray, telephone manager, will move to his summer home about the last of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bickford, Mrs. Nellie Jones, Miss Marion Sprague, Mrs. Lucy Cushing, Miss Grace Mitchell and Mrs. C. L. Wade visited Vesta Chapter, O. E. S., on Wednesday evening, April 24th.

Mrs. C. L. Wade had a pleasant visit to Hadassah Chapter in Dorchester recently.

HINGHAM HAPPENINGS

Mrs. C. E. West, Mrs. Henry Burr, Mrs. Arthur Sampson, Mrs. Annie Pratt, Mrs. Tinsley, Mrs. J. F. Heim, Mrs. Bessie Hunt, attended the Past Noble Grand meeting of the Rebekah Assembly on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Bessie Hunt, Past Noble Grand of the Hingham Lodge, was initiated into the order.

Mrs. Bessie Heim has been appointed deputy of Vida Lodge No. 43 of Whitman.

Mrs. Nellie Jones, Worthy Matron of Dorothy Bradford Chapter, has been ill for several days, we are sorry to state.

Mrs. Abby Downing, Noble Grand of Amelia M. Bosworth Rebekah Lodge, has been confined to the house for several weeks, but is better at present writing.

Mrs. Jennie Nichols and daughter Marion, who are summer residents here and frequent and welcome visitors at the O. E. S. and Rebekah meetings, are members of the Brighton Lodge which entertained the Rebekah Assembly on Wednesday.

Mrs. Fred Lane gave an entertainment with the Bluebirds, of which she is leader, that was very excellent in every respect. About 150 people attended.

James M. Kimball will give his monologue "Women" before the First Women's Relief Corps on Saturday evening. We predict that James will some time be so famous an authority on the subject that he will have more engagements to talk than he can fill.

The excellent quartet, composed of Misses Sprague and Thomas and Dr. Underwood and Mr. Godfrey, which has given so much pleasure, has been christened the Dorothy Bradford Quartet.

It is expected that the Rebekah Lodge will hold a whist party soon to raise money for its war work. Mrs. Jennie Torrey is chairman of the committee.

Mrs. C. L. Wade recently witnessed a performance of "Green Stockings," given by a club of which her sister, Mrs. Jas. White is a member. This club is giving a series of presentations of this play in aid of Red Cross work. The have pledged to raise $1,000.

Attention is called to the advertisement of seed potatoes at E. E. Bickford Co.'s store. Especially grown and selected seed potatoes.

It is a matter for congratulation that Hingham is doing such excellent work in every way. Hingham's record has always been good in every way.

Mr. Jas. M. Kimball and sister (Mrs. Clara Stetson) have lately moved from their home in Hingham and are now residing in Philadelphia. They will be missed by a host of friends who wish them great happiness in their new surroundings.

Hingham has over-subscribed its allotment of $250,000 for Liberty bonds, which speaks well for the Trust Company, Savings Bank and Loan Committee and patriotic individuals, as the amount allotted to this town was considered large.

The Misses Coy of Cambridge have lately purchased Mr. Cyril J. Laffoon's estate (formerly known as the Crocker Wilder estate) on Main street, South Hingham.

Mr. Larivee and wife are now living at "Maple Hall" corner of Cushing and Main streets, having purchased the house with about 40 acres of land.

The moving picture show held every other Saturday evening at Wilder Memorial Hall under the auspices of the South Parish Church, are much enjoyed.

Mrs. Hollen of Cambridge, who has lately purchased the Old Homestead (Murdock estate) at South Hingham, is having many improvements made to this old colonial home and is adding an orchard of many varieties of fruit trees.

Mrs. Joe Haskell passed away at her home on Main street, Tuesday morning. She leaves a husband and daughter, Mrs. Charles Whiting. She had been an invalid for several years and was a woman of many Christian virtues.

Bluebirds, red-winged blackbirds, song sparrows, shipping sparrows and tree swallows have returned from their southern visit, and the nightly chorus of the "peepers" in the swamps and lowlands is a welcome sound after a long, cold winter. The dry spring weather is giving the farmers a good opportunity to plow and harrow and many seeds have been planted, pea plants already showing above the ground in several places.

L. W. Cushing has offered his grocery business for sale and will give up the postoffice at South Hingham.

Mr. Charles W. Holmes and family, of South Portland street, will move to Canada. Mr. Holmes has been superintendent of training and employment of men for the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind. He has resigned to accept the directorship of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind at Toronto. He has been given a five-year contract and will commence work on July 1. Mr. Holmes is one of the foremost blind men in this country and his expert knowledge of the problems of the blind will well fit him for his new position.

The new combination musical, vaudeville and motion picture program at the Castle Square has made a hit. With an orchestra of ten players under the direction of Joseph Marr, the Castle Square is giving a delightful musical entertainment, and the ballet and other dances also add not a little piece of variety to the continuous bill, which last from half past twelve until half past ten in the evening.

An attractive musical program has been arranged for the coming week and a number of favorite vaudeville artists will appear. For the first half of the week the photoplays will be "The Lie," in the incomparable Elsie Ferguson in the leading character, and Bryant Washburn in "Twenty One." During the last half of the week Wallace Reid will appear in "The House of Silence," and Madge Kennedy in "The Danger Game." Throughout the week, in addition to these features, there will be other comedy pictures, the Hearst-Pathe News, and a number of specialties.

A beautiful new tea room still attracts the ladies; to each of them is given a free cup of tea. On Monday souvenirs are given to all patrons.

CAMPAIGN TO CRACK THE MELTING POT.

New Publication of the Committee on Public Information to Meet This Danger.

"American and Allied Ideals" is the title of the latest publication issued by the Committee on Public Information, which may be obtained free upon application to 10 Jackson Place, Washington, D. C. Its author is Stuart P. Sherman, professor of literature in the University of Illinois, and its basic principle is that "the American who has not been thoroughly indoctrinated with American ideals is a menace to the republic."

"Till the outbreak of the present war," says Professor Sherman, "we have flattered ourselves that the melting pot was working fairly well; and he points to 'the records of the aniazing process' which transforms a Scandinavian, the Russian, the Pole, the Roumanian into loyal sons and daughters of the republic." In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, this transformation has been the work of our general educational system, in the schools, the colleges, the universities, and the American ideals is a menace to the republic."

Since the beginning of the war there has been in this country "an aggressive campaign to crack the pot, to smash the mold of national life." The program of the men engaged in this work is summed up as follows: "Attack England; praise Germany; attack everything in America that is due to English influence; praise everything in America that is due to German influence. Accordingly they sneer at the ideals and professions of democratic government; they sneer at the Pilgrim Fathers and at the Puritans, who since the seventeenth century have constituted the moral backbone of the nation; they set themselves against every movement of moral reform; they sneer at all the humanitarian movements associated with Christianity; they sneer at those works of American literature which we recognize as classical. In short, they keep up a continuous campaign against every revered American tradition, against every established political ideal, against every accepted article of our public and private morality, against everything admirable in our social aspirations, against everything characteristic of the common sense of the American people."

THESPIAN TOPICS.

Boston Opera House.

"Our Boys in France," which opened at the Boston Opera House on Monday night under the direction of Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert, is not a motion picture. It is a big spectacular melodrama in four acts and twelve scenes by Lincoln J. Carter, with a company of 150 people. A large audience, on opening night, was stirred by its patriotic appeal and awed by its stage effects. This is a melodrama all should see because of its patriotic sentiment and also because it is the most thrilling spectacular show that has been presented in Boston. It stands side by side with Ben Hur.

The S. A. S. A. P. is deeply appreciate not alone of the money but but of the honor and the spirit shown by the boys.

WE ADVOCATE WELCOME SIGN

A new thought and method to express fellowship in the motor world on the highway at motor entrance in Massachusetts is presented by Mrs. Harper, the first woman motor lecturer in America. Mrs. Harper, who is visiting friends in the city, asks and invites each city and town to give particular attention this year to the establishment at each entrance of town or city of a "road sign of hospitality" which, she claims, "will be more than worth while." "Glad you came, come again" as it were. Hull hasn't this sign but its good roads and good treatment virtually does the same thing. Let's have such a sign up in Hull and every town on the South Shore.

The Hingham Home Guard is doing good work in training and we know will do effective work if the occasion requires.

Mrs. Botting has received word that her son Eugene has arrived safely "over there."
